

www.doublesleague.co.uk

Split into male and female leagues, this will be for levels only (mixed might be further down the line but not until everything is running steady and there is demand).

Places are listed on a first come basis and the first two months will be an old school ladder tournament, you can challenge anyone up to two places above you for their place, if you win you swap places in the ladder. If someone below you challenges you and you refuse twice you will change places with them because you've bottled it.

This will run for two months to try and establish the positions before we decide if it is more fun than a guy with a big shaky stick can muster or if it's better to have it in pools with promotion and demotion the same as the singles league is running???

Names on a mail to doublesleague@hotmail.co.uk